

Lantah Announces Pre-ICO Details for the First Blockchain-based Borderless Marketplace

Lantah, Led by an All Star Veteran Team, Launches First Three Dimensional Crypto Commerce Platform

TAMPA, FLORIDA, USA, March 14, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Lantah (www.lantah.com) today announced it is developing the first blockchain-based borderless marketplace designed to provide a wide array of sales services including retail, wholesale, and auctions of both goods and services in B2B, B2C, and C2C transactions. This will connect buyers and sellers anywhere on Earth, giving everyone access to world-class sales and distribution systems that were previously out of reach. Lantah is led by well-known veterans in eCommerce, supply chain management, software development, and marketing who understand experientially what it takes to make a good idea become successful. As part of the announcement, Lantah is disclosing pre-ICO details, which represents an exclusive opportunity for early investors who understand the market opportunity Lantah addresses.

“My vision was to revolutionize commerce and global trade by introducing the power of blockchain,” said Daniel Jeffery, Founder and CEO of Lantah. “I recognized that legacy financial systems would soon give way to virtual currencies and dynamic payment systems and that escalating fraud could be addressed with the innate strengths of blockchain - a much-needed new paradigm for commerce has finally arrived.”

Lantah aims to provide a rich ecosystem including online storefronts, secure contracts, and full supply-chain logistics. Lantah's gram™, will allow consumers and businesses to transact across the Lantah network and is designed to function with the high liquidity needed to span the global economy. The gram can act as a standalone currency or as temporary common-ground, acting as a cost effective and speedy settlement layer between various currencies.

Daniel Jeffery, a young entrepreneur who has become a regular contributor at The Market Mogul, soon Forbes and was recently featured in publications like Business Vision for his insights on blockchain, continued, “While blockchain is thriving, what’s missing is a platform that combines cryptocurrency, fiat, and a full-scale marketplace with the supply chain infrastructure to support it.

Lantah offers just that.”

With a very large market size, limited Lantah gram supply, and a strong team made up of experienced founders, the presale allows buyers to lock in the minimum possible ICO price and is an offer that savvy investors won't want to miss.

The presale of 50 million Lantah grams will be available at $0.0857142856 per gram. The presale will be followed by the ICO, which will make 350 million Lantah grams available with a minimum funding of $30 million and no limit. Any ICO funding above $30 million will result in an ICO price above the amount paid by presale investors.
