

SMi Group recently announced the launch of BioBanking 2018....

Aimed at an audience of leading professional from biorepositories, regulatory representatives and scientific pioneers

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, March 15, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- SMi Group recently announced the launch of BioBanking 2018, the 8th annual, taking place on 13th & 14th June 2018 in Central London, UK. Aimed at an audience of leading professional from biorepositories, regulatory representatives and scientific pioneers, the event will build on the success of previous years by providing a focal point for the industry to address new innovations and regulatory changes.

The objective of the event is to dive into application of novel technologies and security software associated to the protection of data. The event will create a broader understanding of the ethical and regulatory frameworks, as well as define the impact that the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) will have in 2018. The conference will also look at defining some of the most successful applications of biosamples in the market.

The expert speaker list has been carefully selected and will be made up of senior figures from biorepositories, regulatory agencies, drug discovery programmes and legal advisors.

Featured speakers will include Christopher Perrett, Human Tissue Authority, Gareth Bicknell from Human Biomaterials Resource Centre, Karine Sargsyan from the Medical University of Graz, Jennifer Cheesman-Janes from Duke University Department of Surgery, Peadar MacGabhann of Biostor Ireland, Aarno Palotie of the Finland Institute for Molecular Medicine, Heli Salminen-Mankonen from University of Turku and many more.
