Our market research analysts have estimated that this market will grow steadily at a CAGR close to 8% by 2022.

Segmentation by end-user and analysis of the automotive thrust washers market

- OEMs
- Aftermarket

The OEMs accounted for the major share of the market during 2017. The enhancement of the material strength will improve the lifespan of automotive thrust washers. According to our analysts, OEMs will be the major end-user segment to the automotive thrust washers market during the forecast period as well.

Geographical segmentation and analysis of the automotive thrust washers market

- Americas
- APAC
- EMEA

in terms of geographic regions, APAC accounted for the maximum share of this thrust bearing market during 2017. Our analysts have predicted that the market will witness steady growth in this region during the next five years as well and this will attribute to the rising production of the automotive industry especially in the emerging countries.
