

Frank Sinatra's fingerprint card from a 1938 arrest and a rare studio tape of Jimi Hendrix will be auctioned April 19th

They're expected star lots in Weiss Auctions' next big sale, on Thursday, April 19th, at 10 am Eastern time, online and at the firm's gallery in Lynbrook, N. Y.

LYNBROOK, N.Y., UNITED STATES, March 22, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- LYNBROOK, N.Y. – Frank Sinatra's original signed fingerprint card from his arrest in New Jersey in 1938, pre-fame, on a morals charge, and a studio multi-track master two-inch tape with eight different songs and segments recorded by Jimi Hendrix not long before his death, are star lots in Weiss Auctions' next big sale, planned for Thursday, April 19th, at 10 am Eastern time.

The auction will be held online and in Weiss Auctions' gallery at 74 Merrick Road in Lynbrook. Internet bidding will be provided by LiveAuctioneers.com and Proxibid.com. The sale is packed with hundreds of lots of rock 'n' roll, historical items, militaria and Part 3 of the Jerry Winevsky collection of New York City and Coney Island postcards, books, photographs and ephemera.

In November 1938, a then-23-year-old Frank Sinatra was twice arrested in Bergen County, N.J., and charged with seduction (yes, that was a thing back then) and adultery. According to a police report, Sinatra "under the promise of marriage" had sex with a woman who initially claimed Ol' Blue Eyes had deflowered her. Charges were dropped when it came out the woman was married.

You can showcase this tape in a museum quality shadowbox

AND we'll help you build a digital kiosk for easy playback of the digital tracks

"ONCE IN A LIFETIME OPPORTUNITY":

YOU can OWN a piece of history... A Jimi Hendrix studio multitrack master (two-inch tape)...

This is your chance to add the coolest piece of history EVER, to your museum or man-cave. This two-inch safety master contains the full multitrack master tracks of all of the songs listed above. The tape comes in it's original box, and also includes a professionally transferred digital copy of the entire master tape. We've kept it in a humidity and temperature controlled cabinet, but of course, this tape would look amazing, showcased in a museum quality shadowbox.

We're audio engineers, so we'll even help you choose and setup a digital kiosk or jukebox style playback of your choice, so that you can easily enjoy and interact with the various tracks.

The tape has been reviewed by Eddie Kramer and John McDermott of the Experience Hendrix Foundation, LLC, and they have confirmed that the reel is a safety master.

dubbed from the original master tape that is in the Hendrix family archive.

Most of these songs were recorded in the final months of Jimi's life, and were released posthumously on "Cry of Love" album, which peaked at #3 and spent a total of 39 weeks on the Billboard chart.

Just being able to grab a fader, solo or mute and listening to the amazing complexity of each track, soloing up a vocal and hearing Jimi talk and even yell when he made a mistake during the recording session- it's something that as a rock & roll fan, you just can't explain the feeling.

We've spent years analyzing these tracks and will also include a 25 page guide of when each track was recorded and any many other important details that are known. Experience HENDRIX, like never before. ENJOY!

Digital Kiosk/Jukebox
 Imagine being able to easily SOLO up Jimi's vocal or guitar, and hear him chatting between & during takes.

Studio multi-track master two-inch tape with eight different songs and segments, recorded by Jimi Hendrix.

Sinatra's signed finger print card from that seduction arrest is the item being auctioned, and it's considered a rare and valuable piece of memorabilia because it pre-dates his rise to stardom as an international singing sensation, charter member of the Rat Pack and the Chairman of the Board. Sinatra collectibles typically date back to when he was "Bones" at the Paramount and forward.

The multi-track master two-inch studio tape is the ultimate collectible for fans of Jimi Hendrix, arguably the greatest rock guitarist who ever lived. On the tape are eight songs (or segments), plus a short unidentified piano composition, recorded in the waning days of the star's life, which ended at age 27 in 1970. Hendrix has been an inspiration for generations of guitarists ever since.

The lot consists of the studio tape, featuring six songs off the Cry of Love album (Freedom, Ezy Ryder, Night Bird Flying, Straight Ahead, Astro Man and In From the Storm); one song from the War Heroes album (Stepping Stone); an instrumental keyboard track lasting a few minutes; 24-bit .wav files, digitally transferred to two data DVDs, so the taped material can be used in a digital work station; and in-depth analyses of each song, all in a handsome presentation box.

The rock 'n' roll memorabilia also includes a 1969 Jimi Hendrix Northern California Folk Rock Festival concert poster; a 1969 Janis Joplin concert poster, a framed group of signatures from all four Beatles, displayed below an early photo of the Fab Four; a bootleg Bruce Springsteen LP titled Jersey Devil, signed by Springsteen, Weinberg and Federici; and original back stage passes from all genres, concerts and crew shirts, posters, handbills and other rare and sought after items.

Other posters will feature a 1935 Little Black Sambo one-sheet poster, with restoration; an 1897 French Exposition de Poupees (Doll Exhibition) poster; a 1983 Italian propaganda poster, one seeking volunteer technicians; a circa 1910 French Gustave Rouquier jewelry advertising poster, by Charles Railpod; and a scarce circa 1935 Wrigley's Chewing Gum poster, by Otis Shepard.

The poster category continues with a 1978 Polish Star Wars one-sheet movie poster, unrestored; a 1932 Europe and Brazil Graf zeppelin travel poster, HAPAG, by Paul Theodore Etbauer; and a Veedol Framed group of individual signatures of all four Beatles, displayed beneath a photo of the Fab Four.

Bootleg Bruce Springsteen LP titled Jersey Devil, signed by Springsteen, Weinberg and Federici.

Motor Oil poster from around 1936 showing the Graf and Hindenburg zeppelins. Also up for bid will be World Wars I and II posters, advertising posters, foreign posters and other posters.

NASA offerings will include nicely framed lots, to include one for the Apollo 15 moon mission, with an image of the moon surrounded by autographs of various astronauts; one for the Mercury 7 mission, with a photo of the crew, an autographed news release and a signed check; and an Apollo 11 lot, with the crew and signatures of Buzz Aldrin, Neil Armstrong and Michael Collins.

A collection of rare and adorable cast iron doorstops will include a Hubley Bathing Beauties doorstop, signed "Fish"; a Hubley Charleston Dancers doorstop, also signed "Fish"; and more. Militaria will feature Civil War and other items. Photographic images will include tintypes, ambrotypes and daguerreotypes. Rounding out the sale will be rare books and paper ephemera.
