Author Discerns God's Presence In Every Human's Trials

DEXTER, MO, UNITED STATES, March 22, 2018
/EINPresswire.com/ -- "Forgotten", the fifth installment in a seven book series by Betty Lowrey brings to mind the trials of life whether illness, marital problem, forgotten vows or the exhausting throe of personalities that wage war through distrust, resentment or stubbornness. In Forgotten in the midst of chaos, God brings celebration when the scales fall from eyes that could not see to realize what goodness and mercy offer.

The ravage of disease threatens but hearts are eased. It is the relationship of friends and the bond they share through belief that dispels the darkness of thought of dying. Losing one they love is a trial they never wanted, but trial comes and with it the answer questioned since the beginning of time, Does prayer work? Does God hear us when we call out to Him? What about little Ruthie's gift that seems honestly to come from heaven's portals? She knows things no child her age could know. Forgotten will bless the reader as the mystery of God's love brings the characters to their knees and the majesty of heaven is revealed through the love ordinary people have for each other.

About the Author:

Betty Lowrey draws from an educational background that dealt with literature and the love of words and life.

She began writing first person articles of interest for a newspaper and branched into hosting a weekly column that featured area writers and poets. She studied with the late author and illustrator David Melton and has been published in numerous magazines and newspapers. While writing is an important outlet, she is also an artist, a life group leader, and has an interest in an area agricultural endeavor.
