“We want the best care available for our family members,” said Howe. “And for the brave men and women veterans, these benefits are extremely helpful.”

Comfort Keepers of Warren, NJ, is embarking on this awareness campaign to get the word out and let all area veterans know that affordable in-home care is something their benefits package may be providing them.

The leading senior care provider in Central New Jersey makes this move, according to Howe, as a way to honor veterans for their service and provide them with a

How Do You Learn About Eligibility?

Applying and getting approved for the Aid & Attendance benefits can be challenging for some. Comfort Keepers of Warren NJ “believes it is always best to seek professional help to speed up the application process and offer you accurate direction,” advises Howe. “Professional help is free, and there are plenty of resources available to you.”

Those available resources include elder law attorneys, the Local VFW, and the Local American Legions. If you think you are eligible for the benefits but don't know where to begin, Howe suggests call Comfort Keepers at (732) 369-3639 and they will lead you in the right direction.

“This is an awareness campaign that we feel is going to have an enormous and positive impact on our senior community,” said Howe.
