High Definition Music Card™

The High Definition Music Card is a new USB format device for delivering music content that features the latest advancements in surround sound reproduction that compares to no other format in the world.

It can be played on any USB device, including laptops, PC's, Blu-ray players and more.

The High Definition Music Card is the brainchild of MediaInVision's founder and managing director, Alexander Goldberg Jero. The composer brings his unique talents to the digital music world with a USB device that harnesses the power of live music. By creating a portable high definition music device, Jero and MediaInVision aim to revolutionise the current music media market.

This new format for listening to music implements full hi-def, surround sound technology. Alexander Goldberg Jero captures the individual elements of compositions and then layers them digitally to create the final piece of music.

This allows for the same kind of precision one is afforded when working with 3D images. Jero works with pieces of music in the same way, but in 3D sound space. The High Definition Music Card is a portable delivery system for this technology.

It contains HD audio streams as well as complementary materials such as artist bios, photos, support software, release information, and links. The card can also be used to store user personalized content like personal pictures, videos, games, and other media.

The HD Music Card represents a new dawn in mass-market, high definition, surround sound audio technology.

The Master and Margarita

The Master and Margarita is a new CGI-animation film venture produced by Alexander Goldberg Jero, and represents a branching out for MediaInVision PLC as they turn their unique talents to new markets.

Also featuring the composing talents of Jero, the film will be a CGI adaptation of the novel by famed Russian author Mikhail Bulgakov. The novel was censored by the Stalinist Soviet regime in Russia and remained on the banned list for thirty years.

Packed with Bulgakov's biting satirical wit, combined with romance and comedy, The Master and Margarita has been voted Russia's favourite novel. Now it is being brought to life in a masterful collaboration of digital image and sound by an impassioned artist.

The story concerns a visit by the devil to the officially atheistic Soviet Union. The 'Master' is a dying author with an unpublished novel, scorned and victimised by the oppressive bureaucracy of his day. 'Margarita' is his mistress who agrees to sell her soul to the devil in return for the power to aid her lover. Many critics consider it to be one of the best novels of the 20th century, as well as the foremost of Soviet satires.

The majority of the film has been financed and is already expected to achieve big things in the film world in the near future.
