ParentOn Helps Parents Protect Kids on Smartphones

New app from ParentOn LTD is designed to prevent inappropriate behaviour targeting children and teens using smartphones

I think this is a great solution, not only for parents but also for relatives who are concerned about their younger relatives.”

Matt Angeles

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, MARCH 31, 2018 - Staggering statistics show that 37% of online grooming happens in chat rooms, 40% use instant messaging, and 21% are using methods such as gaming sites. For parents, the need to be vigilant of their children's smartphone use is more critical than ever.

Parents and experts alike agree that prevention of inappropriate behaviour on smartphones is important, and one company is unveiling a solution.

ParentOn is the first app designed to preemptively catch these incidents early on. The app is designed for use with IOS and Android smartphones and instantly senses any unusual activity happening in a child's chats without spying on them. Once suspicious activity has been detected, an alert is sent to the parent's phone.

“Buying your teen a smartphone is easy,” said the ParentOn team. “Keeping them safe on that smartphone is almost impossible.”

...at least it was impossible before ParentOn!

ParentOn has just launched a crowdfunding campaign designed to raise funds and awareness to launch the app. Pre-orders are also now being accepted. Further information can be found at <http://parenton.click>.
