

Global Staging License Launched The Business Tools To Empower Home Staging Professionals

PALO ALTO, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, April 23, 2018

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Global Staging License is excited to announce the addition of its business tools for home staging entrepreneurs as a part of their online training. Global Staging License offers its online course for aspiring staging professionals to complete their home staging certification through an online gamified platform, that gives them access to the right knowledge needed to operate their business. The launch of Global Staging License tools came shortly after their announcement of new subscription model made affordable for home staging professionals around the globe.

'The way that clients expect a business to respond to them has shifted over the past few years especially when it comes to instant gratification,' says Shahla Jalali, the CEO of Global Staging License. Mindcrafted by the industry professionals and the business leaders, these tools feed the needs of the home staging professionals from all parts of the world. Global Staging License members are able to exceed client expectations with speed, through the use of their tools. Whether a home stager is talking to a lead or a client, the ability to instantly send them information, contracts, or a checklist that actually benefits the client right away, during or right after a conversation, allows the home staging entrepreneurs to keep up with the fast-paced, competitive home staging industry.

It may seem like a small factor, however, subconsciously it's actually a large contribution. To provide a series of business tools that have been written, designed, and made simple to use for staging entrepreneurs to provide quality and speed to their clients, regardless of the scenario they're in, puts them in a better position of power to compete with others.

The business tools offered by Global Staging License, are connected to the online staging courses to empower the home staging professionals to carry out the business successfully through an all in one platform. The online staging courses offers the knowledge of not only the staging skills, but also the entrepreneurial skills to operate a staging business right from capturing the lead via marketing yourself, to closing and negotiating with a client.

Each component of the platform compliments the other. For example, the online staging course teaches you the components, and the tools that are built based on the knowledge that you can actually implement into the real world. The intent behind the tools is to not only provide Global Staging License members more value but to also provide its members with ammunition to keep up the great quality service for their clients. The Global Staging License tools can be accessed with the home staging certification for members, at no additional cost.
