

Indermaur Media Launches Visual Creative Coach - Corporate Photography And Video Consulting

Scott Indermaur trains visual artists and corporations in need of upscaling their photography and video production.

PROVIDENCE, RI, UNITED STATES, April 11, 2018

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Indermaur Media has launched a new coaching and consulting business line to train visual artists and corporations in need of upscaling their photography and video production. Visual Creative Coach services include coaching and advice regarding the right types of equipment to use, creating or managing digital library assets, lighting and camera techniques, creating impactful social media photography; as well as, how independent photographers and videographers can grow their business and expand their creativity.

Scott Indermaur, of Indermaur Media, has built a successful career sharing stories through the visual language of photography and videography. His gift lies in discovering the familiar in the exotic and the remarkable in the ordinary. Scott travels extensively for assignments, regularly traversing the U.S, Europe, and Asia. Past clients include IBM, Rhode Island School of Design, BCBS of Rhode Island, Black & Decker, Ryder, Land Rover, Liberty Mutual Insurance, Federal Home Loan Bank of Topeka, The Actuarial Foundation, and WGBH (Boston's Public Media Outlet). He has photographed portraits of Alan Greenspan, Ben Bernanke, Sprint CEO William Esry, and Kansas Governor Kathleen Sebelius. Scott has also spent significant time as an official photographer for Major League Soccer and fulfilling assignments for sport publications like Sports Illustrated, establishing his eye for sports, entertainment and live action. Using photojournalism skills honed in his early days with the Associated Press, Kansas City Star, The Arizona Republic, People Magazine and The New York Times, Scott remains very involved in creating multimedia stories. His diversity in photography and video as a creative multi-media producer for a wide range of clients gives him a unique perspective to help professionals expand their own skills. His work includes advertising photography, corporate headshots, environmental portraits, narrative corporate videos for the purposes of brand elevation - all sharing stories through the visual language of photography and videography.
