

Blue Light Partners with Rosoka Software

Blue Light joins Rosoka's Business Partner Program as a Reseller of Rosoka Advanced Text Analytics Technology for IBM's ® i2® Analyst's Notebook®

HERNDON, VA, USA, April 17, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Rosoka Software, Inc., a leading provider of multilingual text analytics and extraction solutions, announced today that Blue Light, LLC has joined the Rosoka Reseller program.

Rosoka Software is a developer of software solutions that extract meaningful insights from unstructured multilingual text. Rosoka's language analysis and entity extraction software is used in the US and abroad in the defense and intelligence industry to provide insights for counterterrorism, cybersecurity, and law enforcement analysis.

Rosoka Text Analytics for i2 Analyst's Notebook combines multilingual text analytics with the proven structured text analytics and visualization of the i2 Analysts' Notebook solution to help users effectively extract insight from the growing number of unstructured documents. The tightly integrated Rosoka Text Analytics application identifies entities, relationships, and locations in documents in over 200 languages, with insights made available to the Analyst's Notebook user in the application. The integrated solution delivers advanced features that turbocharge analysis from processing to presentation.

As a Reseller of the Rosoka Text Analytics for the i2 Analyst's Notebook solution, Blue Light will provide unstructured text analytics capabilities to Analyst's Notebook clients. In addition to providing the Rosoka Text Analytics solution, Blue Light will offer full training on the integrated solution to i2 users.

Ed Boggess, Vice President of Blue Light said "We are thrilled to partner with Rosoka. As a prior analyst myself, this is a product that analysts have been waiting on for some time now. This analysis and entity extraction software arms the analysts with a tool that will speed up their workflow by its ability to convert unstructured data into entities and links to uncover hidden associations."

"We are excited to partner with Blue Light, as an IBM Business Partner and the premier IBM i2 training organization, Blue Light brings a wealth of expertise to our joint customers," said Gregory Roberts, CEO of Rosoka Software, "Blue Light's expertise in helping clients fully leverage the power of the IBM portfolio of solutions will enable them to effectively deliver the new unstructured text analytics capabilities to the markets."

About Blue Light

Blue Light is an IBM® Business Partner specializing in the sales, support, and training of the entire IBM i2® portfolio of products. Blue Light has grown from an i2 training company to a one-stop shop for all i2® related requirements including training, software sales, solution design, implementation, integration, and ongoing technical support. Known for its commitment to i2 customer's needs, Blue Light has also developed the Blue Light Management Console (BLMC). The BLMC provides customers with a federated search capability to all relational databases. For the first time, customers can simultaneously access and analyze user data from disparate databases that have never before been aggregated, decreasing analysis time and increasing business efficiencies.
