

TraceGains' Explosive Growth Leads to New, Expansive Corporate Headquarters

TraceGains has moved its corporate headquarters to impressive technology campus.

WESTMINSTER, CO, UNITED STATES, April 19, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- TraceGains, the leading compliance software solution, revolutionizing information exchange across the supply chain for Food, Beverage, and CPG companies has moved its corporate headquarters to a modern, expansive technology campus at the foothills of the Rocky Mountains.

The move was necessitated by the massive growth of the TraceGains family to handle the growing customer and supplier base.

“We have really put the pedal to the metal in the last few years, growing our customer base and expanding our product suite to meet the needs of the industry,” said Gary Nowacki, CEO, TraceGains. “To have an effective product and optimally service our customers, we also invested in our employee base. We’ve nearly doubled our workforce over the last two years, and plan to keep up the rapid pace.”

The new corporate headquarters offers an impressive open layout that encourages communication and collaboration, team building, and innovation. With floor-to-ceiling glass walls that let in an abundance of natural light and a variety of fun and useful amenities, TraceGains has demonstrated an investment in not only the company, but its employees.

“Our team is why we are an industry leader,” commented Brittany Steffensen, PHR, HR Generalist, TraceGains. “We wanted to provide a space that would show our employees that they are valued and that would help them continue to perform at their best. Our new space encourages open communication and innovative thinking with glass walls, collaboration stations, and thousands of feet dedicated to new growth.”
