MARIETTA, GA, UNITED STATES, April 25, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- "I'm incredibly proud," says William Lightner, "to have been selected as this year's Religious and Spiritual Services Professional of the Year by Strathmore's Who's Who. It's fantastic recognition and a great accolade."

A former military man and finance executive turned evangelist and public speaker, Lightner attributes much of his success in life to his education. As a child, Lightner attended a private Baptist school before moving to Vestal High School in New York. From here, he would move to Illinois and complete his education at Elgin's Judson University.

"It was an outstanding choice of school for me because of the higher education setting and their worship of God," says Lightner of the evangelical Christian liberal arts university. "Judson University made me into the man I am today," he adds.

Following his time with the military, Lightner went on to enjoy successful careers in professional sales and finance. However, feeling that his true calling lay elsewhere, the author of End Time Prophecy Made Easy enrolled in a six-month development and training process in order to join a well known religious mission.

From there, Lightner traveled to almost 30 countries across the globe, working as a public speaker and evangelist. "The mission is one organization I've loved doing work for," he notes. "I'm honored to be connected with such a great group."

Strathmore's Who's Who has chosen to recognize Lightner for his years of dedication and hard work in the fields of religion and spirituality. Selected from upwards of 1,000 shortlisted individuals, Lightner estimates that he's assisted many hundreds of individuals around the world, each on a one-to-one basis, in finding comfort in God. "I've traveled tens of thousands of miles over the course of several years, helping those in need," explains the evangelist.

"In this time I've also addressed vast crowds numbering several thousand at once," William Lightner adds. "Here I would teach people to recognize fellowship and faith through prayer, allowing them to live a more improved life as a follower of Christ," he continues.

A yearly publication, Strathmore's Who's Who profiles successful individuals from the worlds of medicine, research, healthcare, education, business, law, government, engineering, sciences, and the arts. Honoring professionals who have demonstrated leadership and achievement in their chosen fields of work, the publication aims to promote the benefits of networking, research, and information sharing, and to facilitate the commencement of mutually beneficial business between those recognized.
