This AI based platform streamlines patient- doctor communication enabling the path from illness to wellness and ultimately to well being ...”

Dileep Srinivasan, Executive Partner and Founder Powerfluence

Powerfluence, being the strategic partner is excited about the expansion of its wings into the fields of healthcare. “Looking beyond the fact that Digital Health Start-ups raised an all-time high of 11.5 B$ in 2017 our Point of View is that this sector is poised for a sustained accelerated growth, though most of the companies have been focused on sick care, model, and a very few are disrupting thru paradigm shift to real well being health care model, Replete Health will lead that pack” says Srinivasan.

Although Replete Health was in stealth mode over the last two years during product development, the company is aware of the competition and assures the versatility of the coveted product. Ms Lalitha Adibhatla, President and Chief Compliance Officer of Replete Health says “We have been under the shell for the past two years in developing our fantastic product, which is designed to significantly improve doctor patient communication by nudging both stakeholders to communicate, using Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning. Now, our partnership with Powerfluence increases our strategic marketing and sales capabilities in reaching our target audience. We plans to leverage Powerfluence's experience and expertise to penetrate the health care market at an accelerated pace. We look forward for a flourishing relationship with Powerfluence."

This is an enterprising new beginning for both the companies and looks forward to fruitful endeavors with Replete Health.
