"Who would have thought that a little firm in Allentown, PA could go from being named the top IT consultant in the Philadelphia region in 2017 to this national recognition only a year later?" said Kyle David, CEO of KDG.

KDG's extensive security measures and commitment to cybersecurity education impressed judges. Following some of 2017's and 2018's shocking data breaches, the team was able to ensure all clients were in compliance within 72 hours of a massive data breach. The Lehigh Valley tech management team has also been able to maintain a 99.69% customer satisfaction rating, in addition to publishing educational materials, assisting clients through a state-of-the-art ticketing system, and helping businesses improve compliance through HR Tech Support.

“The work done to maintain security in any kind of business connected to the company is very good and the track record and the results that the company brought up are really very impressive,” one judge said of KDG.

More than 200 professionals worldwide participated in the judging process to select this year's Stevie Award winners.

“The nominations submitted for The 2018 American Business Awards were outstanding. The competition was intense, and those recognized as Stevie Award winners should be immensely proud of this accomplishment,” said Michael Gallagher, president and founder of the Stevie Awards.
