The ECORESILIENTE project refers to the Research Line D 3.2, Topic 2: Adaptation to climate change, of the Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore (Catholic University of the Sacred Heart). The main objective of the project concerns the development of best practices, indicators and good policies to support the preservation of ecosystem services, mitigating the negative effects due to climate change. In particular, "political and economic strategies" will be considered through the inclusion of best practices and indicators in a political context. Coordinator of the project is Prof. Ettore Capri, Ph.D, Director of the European Observatory for Sustainable Agriculture, OPERA, an independent research center and think tank of the Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore. Prof. Capri carries out research and teaches on the impacts of contaminants in the environment, food, living organisms and humans. He is the author of over 240 publications including 110 scientific articles.

We are very proud to support ECORESILIENTE. Our Earth and Environment is just an extension of our being. We have a co-dependent and the responsibility to take actions to make our planet healthier.”
