Automotive Head Restraints Market 2018

Automotive head restraints form an integral part of automotive seating. They provide support to the head and neck and can either be integrated into the seat or attached to it. They are offered as safety features in vehicles as they help in limiting the rearward movement of the occupant's head relative to the torso, thereby mitigating whiplash injury.

The analysts forecast the global automotive head restraints market to grow at a CAGR of 5.91% during the period 2018-2022.
