

G-PMC Celebrates Flood of Government Contractors Coming to the Registrar for ISO Certification

More government contractors are walking away from China-led International Accreditation Forum (IAF) to be ISO certified by a registrar that puts America first

WASHINGTON, DC, US, May 24, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Internationally accredited and recognized G-PMC, LLC is becoming the registrar of choice for an ever-growing number of ISO certification seeking government contractors.

NEW YORK / WASHINGTON - For a government contractor making the right choice in who to turn to for ISO certification can be a crucial decision. For a growing number of government contractors, including some of the largest and most respected, like Lockheed Martin and Boeing, G-PMC, LLC has become the registrar of choice. Founded and led by the President Daryl Guberman, a man with over three decades worth of experience in the field, the registrar recently celebrated government contractors flocking to G-PMC in an informative YouTube video, as evidence of their stellar quality and delivery rating, as well as their highly efficient and reliable processes in place.

We would like to thank our political leaders for recognizing G-PMC and its accreditation body American Board of Accredited Certifications (ABAC) to certify government contractors nationwide”

Seth Williams, G-PMC Spokesperson

“We've been working very diligently with government contractors, especially in the security arena, and that devotion is now truly bearing fruit,” remarked the highly motivated Mr. Guberman. “We understand the importance of our mission and have devoted ourselves to fulfilling it with precision, in the effort to become a valuable asset to the companies who turn to use for ISO certification.”

Mr. Guberman has revealed that many of G-PMC's competing firms, who have seen their clients experience more-than-significant data breaches, have contributed to their vulnerability by being officially associated and allied with a list of standards institutes owned and/or operated by countries who are undisputed enemies of the United States. A situation, which baffles nearly any security professional who is made aware of it. Something Mr. Guberman has worked long and hard both as a businessman and a concerned citizen to shed light on and reveal the details of.

G-PMC's Federal Recognition Attracts Government Contractors In Doves For ISO Certification

Mr. Guberman stresses without, for example a Chinese national, leading any components of their business, the sharing of privileged information, some of which has serious national security concerns, simply does not occur. More and more government contractors are waking up to this extreme difference in G-PMC's structure as opposed to many others in the ISO certification industry and gives a very good explanation for their ever-increasing popularity.

The President of G-PMC continued, "We have been asked to join these compromised associations like the International Accreditation Forum (IAF) and the Arab Accreditation Cooperation, but we could never in good-conscious join one of these organizations. We are independent and fully accredited, without selling out our values or America's interests and that's how we will remain. It's good to know more and more government contractors appreciate this policy."
