More about Las Vegas Rescue Mission
The Las Vegas Rescue Mission provides hope and change for the homeless and hungry population in southern Nevada. They strive to be the model for other organizations. The proceeds from this event fund their programs and services that assist the homeless for a better tomorrow. This organization receives no government support, except for a small grant specifically for food, and relies upon the compassion and support of organizations, corporations, churches and individuals.

The little things in life mean the most, and knowing where your next meal comes from, or escaping the scorching heat on the street to sleep in a cool bed can provide a little hope.”

Founded in 1970, the Las Vegas Rescue Mission started with a small storefront building. The services included a chapel, kitchen and a shelter for housing a few men. Nowadays the mission's campus covers two city blocks to help hundreds and providing 30,000 meals monthly. You can also give back by shopping at the thrift shop on the campus.
