

Diet and Hair Loss or Balding: Lilac Corp Recommends Nolopecia, a Natural Treatment for Better Hair Growth

Lilac Corp reviews a study that tested the effect of diet on balding and recommends Nolopecia, a natural treatment against hair loss.

SARASOTA, FL, UNITED STATES, June 11, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Genetic factors are known to play a role in hair loss. However, diet is also important. The Mediterranean diet is rich in fresh fruit and vegetables. This diet was shown to decrease the risk of cancer [2]. Previous studies have also shown a link between balding and prostate cancer [3]. As a result, the authors of a new study [1] decided to test the effect of the Mediterranean diet on balding.

The scientists compared the diets of 104 balding men with the diets of 108 men with no hair loss. The results showed that those who consumed more raw vegetables and fresh herbs had a lower risk of balding. More specifically, the study showed that men who have fresh vegetables three or more times a week, and regularly use fresh herbs, showed a decrease in their risk of balding by half [1].

For men and women, who suffer from hair loss and balding, Lilac Corp recommends the natural treatment Nolopecia. The new treatment targets the latent viruses in the body. This helps the body maintain a normal level of the 5alpha-R, DHT, and AR proteins. A normal level of these proteins stimulates hair growth. There are many treatments for hair loss on the market. However, only Nolopecia targets the latent viruses that cause the increase in 5alpha-R, DHT, and AR observed in people with hair loss and balding.
