

Latest Health Drink, CBD Coffee, now available at Manhattan's esteemed Philip Marie & K Rico South American Steakhouse

NEW YORK, NEW YORK, USA, June 12, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Cannabidiol (CBD) is a natural component derived from the hemp plant and has been used for medical purposes for hundreds of years. It has no psychoactive effects, so unlike marijuana, it does not get you high. Instead, it produces a calming, healing effect that completely soothes the body and is beneficial and safe for people of all ages.

Owners John P. Greco III & brother Tommy Greco are delighted to EXCLUSIVELY serve Flower Power CBD Coffee at both restaurants in New York City. The Costa Rican blend served is full-bodied with a good balance and lively acidity. Flower Power's CBD coffee is derived from hemp and, according to a recent story in Bon Appetit magazine, is double-tested in a lab in Massachusetts to ensure it is THC-free.

According to Chef/Owner John Greco, "Hemp is legal, has no chemical effects, and you won't fail a drug test. I am also actively exploring CBD infused meals and am thrilled to share the benefits it provides."
