PORTLAND, OREGON, UNITED STATES, June 13, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Throughout our lives, we are confronted with issues, obstacles, and choices that make us question ourselves. Most of the time we turn to friends and family for advice. But what if we choose to follow our own intuition, that little voice within that truly knows us best? And what if there was a coach that could help us learn how to trust our inner wisdom to guide us in experiencing our best life?

Tiffany Marlink is an exceptional whole person life coach, spiritual mentor, and energy healer.

"I coach high-performing individuals who want to create a life that they love," says Tiffany. "My main focus is to provide my clients with direction and support to embrace their authenticity and trust their own inner wisdom."

Tiffany's journey to becoming a top-notch life coach actually began with working as an accountant. Determined to climb the corporate ladder, she was putting in a tremendous amount of time and energy until her health began to deteriorate from the over exertion and stress. Feeling unfulfilled and emotionally drained, Tiffany recognized that she needed to figure out how to regain her health and find true happiness. What started as a quest to fix what felt broken turned into a deep exploration of her true self and spiritual beliefs. She began practicing meditation, studying the law of attraction, and listening to her own intuition. Eventually her journey led to the realization that her life's purpose is to help others on their own journey to self-mastery.

"Whenever we feel lost and overwhelmed, the first thing we should do is slow down and ask for help," says Tiffany. "Being an overachiever, I thought I had to do it all. With the right help and support, I learned the true power of slowing down and listening to my heart. That has taken me further than I could've ever possibly imagined."

Tiffany works with inspiring individuals who want to take their lives to the next level. Many of her clients have been working hard and are waking up to the realization that there is more to life than what they are currently doing. Through a powerful coaching relationship, Tiffany takes her clients on a deep dive into what they truly want to achieve and experience in this lifetime. Her goal is to provide her clients with the proper tools and resources to take the big leaps of faith that are often needed to create a life that they love.

"We don't have to be what society dictates," says Tiffany. "By embodying our true essence, we can fully experience all of the joy and wonder that this lifetime has to offer."

What makes Tiffany exceptionally unique is her ability to create a safe space for her clients to do the deep work that is needed to live their truth while fully understanding the environment and internal drive that comes with climbing the corporate ladder.

"By tapping into their own powerful inner voice, people can discover their amazing ability to achieve their dreams," says Tiffany. "Ultimately they can live a magnificent life that they will genuinely enjoy."
