Good news, lovers of charming home décor! Blue Aspen is about to launch a fresh Welcome Home Collection. The designer behind this great collection is none other than Des Kallas, and the eagerly awaited collection will hit the market on June 26th.

If there is one thing Blue Aspen has mastered, it is making women look like pros when it comes to home décor options. Their charming, unique, and brilliantly designed pieces have turned many homes into enviable artistic living spaces. And now, in honor of this great legacy, Des Kallas has come up with a collection that consists of her favorite wall décor pieces. The latest Welcome Home Collection is on schedule to becoming a favorite of yours when it goes live.

To get your hands on the lovely and stylistic wall decals, you can visit BlueAspenDesignCo.Etsy.com when it launches.

Be quick about it though, the stock of available decals in this ten-piece product line is expected to run out in a matter of days. But, just so you have a hint of what's coming, know this – the decals are designed to ensure that your home feels more inviting and charming.

Surprisingly, the designer got the inspiration for this collection from the emptiness that a new home presents to its new owners, whether they are buying or renting. New homes are drab, plain and boring; featuring generic color options that lack any personality or character. But with these decals, you will make your home beautiful, stylish, and modern so that it becomes your favorite place to be.

The products in this collection are beautifully designed to make the most of modern home décor trends. So, they are a great way to ensure that you have the latest design styles. That also makes them great for showing your charming sense of style, while demonstrating your personal style in ways few other interior design options can. In other words, this decal collection will truly make your new home your own, while also turning it into an aesthetic marvel that wins you frank compliments about your amazing eye for design.

The decals come in all sizes and color options, which will give you the chance to get pieces that are better suited to your personal tastes and needs.

The prices of the Welcome Home Collection are just as accommodating as the design and style options available. You can get in on this design trend with anything from $13 to $179. Des is very proud of her new collection, and cannot wait to share it with her fans on June 26th.

If this is your first time hearing about her work, you are more than welcome to explore the collection and see what her wall decals are all about.

If you need further information on the Welcome Home Collection, or for an interview with Des Kallas, then get in touch through hello@blueaspendesign.com. Requests for high-res media photos are also welcome.
