

Lehigh Valley IT Support Team's New Service Helping Businesses Prevent Data Breaches

The IT support team at KDG is offering businesses HR tech support, the first service of its kind targeted toward insider data threats.

ALLENTOWN, PA, UNITED STATES, June 20, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- For over 17 years, the Allentown tech management team at KDG has helped businesses keep their technology running safely and smoothly. Now, KDG's IT team has unveiled a new service called HR Tech Support that will help businesses combat the number one cause of data breaches: insider data threats.

Roughly three-quarters of cybersecurity hacks that affect businesses are caused by internal threats, such as uneducated employees and unregulated web practices.

"These missteps are usually accidents and not malicious in any way," explains KDG business analyst Kenny Maciborski. "However, one small mistake can have massive consequences."

Among the internal errors that could cause a data breach is a misplaced USB drive, a clicked spam email, or an improperly wiped computer.

With HR Tech Support from KDG, employees will be educated on safe data practices, computers will be protected by the latest security measures, and businesses will be taught how to put together compliance materials.

"We will take care of employee onboarding and offboarding when it comes to technology, install website permissions and endpoint monitoring to stop threats in their tracks, and even provide webinars and training to employees," says Maciborski.

This comprehensive service offered by KDG is the first and only service of its kind and is currently being offered to businesses for only 10 dollars per month per employee.
