

New Online Class in SQL Reporting Exceeds Expectations

Combining a seasoned instructor's hands-on teaching style with an in-demand topic for SQL Server administrators results in many satisfied students.

EFFORT, PENNSYLVANIA, UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, June 25, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- "SQL Reporting Essentials" is a one-day class recently created by Master Instructor, Charles Hyman, who is a Microsoft-Certified Instructor. The class was offered for the first time on June 21, 2018. Mr. Hyman's many years' of experience working with Microsoft SQL Server has given him a keen understanding of the challenges faced by professionals who need to create, format, and manage SQL Server Reporting Services (SSRS).

Several students who took the June 21 class were new to reporting with Microsoft SQL Server Report Builder and SSRS. Some were transitioning from another reporting software application.

Others were already using these tools but wanted to know how to use them more effectively. Almost all participated in lively discussions during the class.

It makes it more interactive and keeps the attention better. I also like how you did things, different ways; showing us that there are many ways to accomplish the same thing. This especially applies to properties for various controls."
