HYDERABAD, TELANGANA, INDIA, June 27, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- According to the new market research report by IndustryARC titled "Enteral Feeding Formula Market: By Product Type (Standard Formula & Disease Specific Formulas); By Application (Oncology, Gastroenterology, Neurology, Critical Care & Others); & By Region-Forecast (2018-2023)", the market is driven by the increasing demand for home-care services or nursing treatments for elderly patients.

Asia-Pacific continues to lead the market share and growth during 2018-2023. Americas held the largest share in 2017 in the enteral feeding formula market, owing to rising geriatric population and growing chronic diseases. The region is anticipated to maintain its dominance over the forecast period. U.S. and Canada are significant and well established nutritional markets, whereas Northern Europe which comprises of Germany and U.K., also hold significant value share in the global market. Strict reimbursement regulations across the European healthcare spectrum are likely to have a detrimental impact on the uptake of enteral feeds market.

Selected / Sample Analysis done in the full Report:

Enteral Feeding formula is an important sub-segment of clinical nutrition market. The value chain for enteral feeding has steps similar to that of clinical nutrition, but becomes more specific as it approaches the consumers.

Research and Development is the first step in the development of any sort of nutrition, where human and plant related factors are being experimented upon. Such experiments ensure a better understanding of human diseases, genetics and metabolism that assists the developers to cross map requirements to specific plants. Also, such plants are being researched extensively to improve their quality and create a sustainable production environment.

The final product is packaged and distributed across the globe, through a chain of robust logistics chain. But as enteral feeding is a specified form of nutrition feeding, medical delegates play a vital role in providing dietitians, nurses and doctors with appropriate products and services.

Excerpts on Market Growth Factors Mentioned in the Full Report:

The increasing prevalence of chronic diseases and preterm births across the globe, coupled with rapidly growing aging population propel the enteral feeding formula market.

The number of deaths due to chronic diseases is very high in emerging countries such as India, China and Brazil. To combat the situation health authorities are bound to invest in chronic health monitoring and treatment devices which will propel the market for enteral feeding formula.

The growing costs of in-hospital care will increase the demand for affordable home healthcare. As the aging population rises, there is a rising need to provide affordable and reliable nutrient to the terminally ill and aged, where enteral nutrition plays a major role. This is expected to create a significant demand for enteral feeding formulas as well.
