

Brand new CBRN focus at Future Armoured Vehicles Survivability 2018 conference and focus day

SMi reports: The 4th annual sell-out conference and focus day Future Armoured Vehicles Survivability will have a brand new CBRN focus

LONDON, WATERLOO, UNITED KINGDOM, June 28, 2018

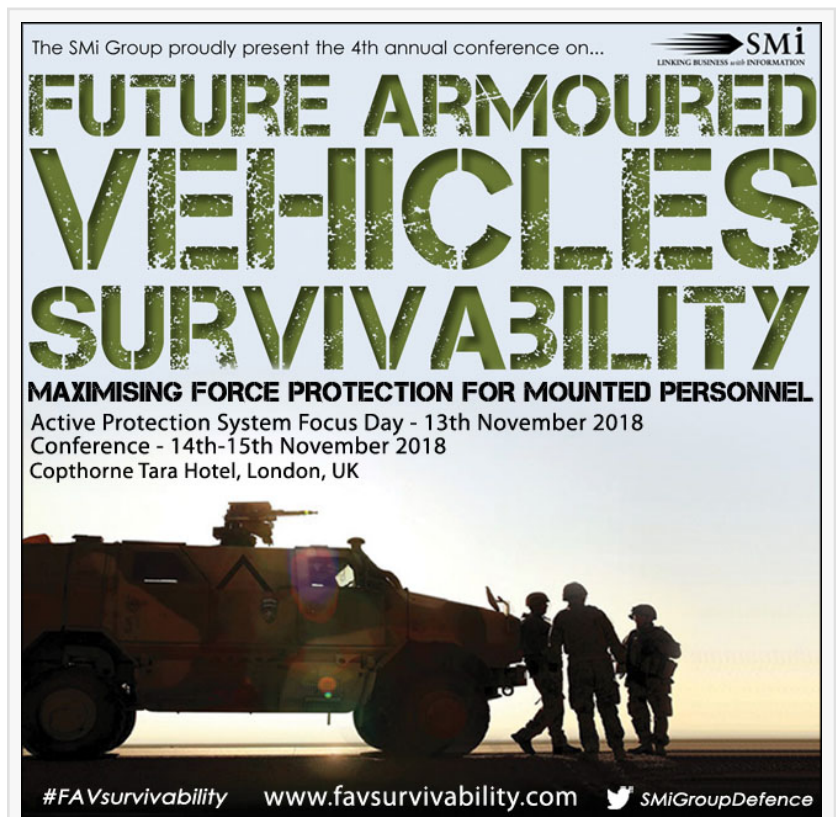

/EINPresswire.com/ -- This year for the first time, attendees can benefit from briefings on the protection of armoured platforms and crews from chemical, biological, nuclear, and radiological threats (CBRN) at Future Armoured Vehicles Survivability conference & focus day 2018.

With the CBRN threat for armoured vehicles remaining high, now has never been a better time to hear more from the CBRN Delivery Team, DE&S, UK MoD and Deputy PEO Operations and Modernisation, JPEO CBD at the three-day event.

Mr. Ian Matthews, CBRN Delivery Team, DE&S, UK MoD will present on 'Delivering Future Ready CBRN Protection for the British Armoured Vehicle Fleet'. Mr Matthews will cover:

- Emerging requirements for enhanced protection against CBRN threats
- An update on the developments in the UK CBRN Equipment Capability Plan
- Reintegrating the FUCHS area reconnaissance and survey vehicles into the British Land Forces
- Ongoing procurement programmes and foreseeable challenges in fending off chemical and biological threats

Mr. Daniel McCormick, Deputy PEO Operations and Modernisation, JPEO CBD will present
