

John Lloyd Dean Donates Thousands to SPCA

As an avid animal activist, John Lloyd Dean is proud to donate $12K to SPCA.

HOUSTON, TEXAS, UNITED STATES, July 3, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- John Lloyd Dean has always had a soft spot in his heart for animals. Dean regards them as such innocent, perfect creatures. Animals are only trying to live their lives in the way nature intended. There is no evil to animals, only trained responses. These responses were, unfortunately, spawned by the darker side of humanity.

That's why John Lloyd Dean donates and volunteers for the SPCA. Dean wants to do whatever he can to help the SPCA continue to save and advocate for animal rights.

About SPCA

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA) is an organization that dates to the late 1800s. The mission of the first SPCA activists was to help improve the treatment of carriage horses in England.

The success of this first mission led to others, which included dogs and eventually, all animals. The popularity of their pursuit eventually took the SPCA global. Currently, they are an international organization that fights both legislation and individual acts.

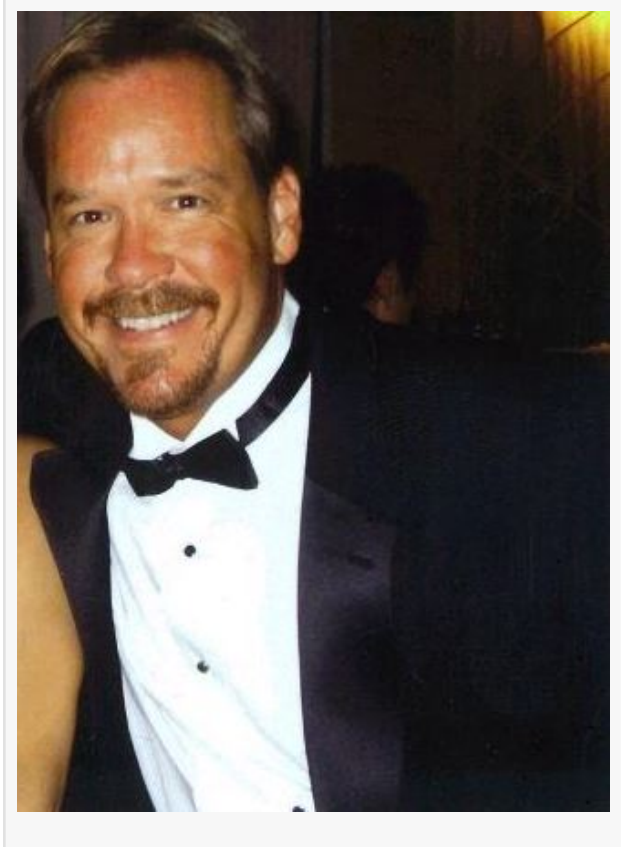

Founded in 2006, SPCA International was officially instituted in America. The objective of these advocates hadn't changed since that first mission. It had only grown to include all animals, that needed a voice throughout the globe.

The Donation

John Lloyd Dean is no stranger to donating and volunteerism. Throughout his life, Dean has always done whatever he could to be able to better the lives of animals. Dean is well-known within the animal activist community. He has worked with them on multiple occasions. So, when he had the opportunity and means to donate to the SPCA, he knew that it was the right thing to do.

Dean is thankful to be able to provide happiness, shelter, and a better life for animals. He knows that he has had good fortune financially. Therefore, he feels a duty to help support those that are less fortunate.

Helping the SPCA

John Lloyd Dean understands that many people are unable to financially help the SPCA to the degree that he does. However, there are many other ways that the SPCA can be supported. Most of these avenues of assistance include giving time and love to animals in need. For instance, there are many shelters, worldwide, that need help. Also, if a family is going to adopt a pet, do so through this organization. Check out specific ways to help the SPCA here.

To close, John Lloyd Dean only wishes he could do more for this wonderful charity. Dean knows that every little bit helps and every moment of time donated is making life better for all animals. Yet, so long as there is injustice in the world against animals, there will be no amount of time or amount of money that will be enough. That is why Dean continues to help the SPCA in their mission, in any way he can. He also encourages others, across the globe, to do the same.
