Norwich Based FA Qualified Football Coach Launches 'Real Coaching for Small Children'

NORWICH, NORFOLK, UNITED KINGDOM, July 4, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Norwich local Dady Kabuiku, FA qualified football coach, fitness fanatic and father of 2 launches local youth football school, 'Small Football School'. After working within football and fitness for over 30 years, Dady decided it was time to launch his own FA inspired football club for players aged between 5 and 9 years old.

The Small Football school gives structured training through an FA inspired curriculum, designed to inspire the football stars of the future.

Having played semi-professionally for French club J.A Armentières, Dady knows exactly how to coach youth players. It may be fun, he says, but he's not messing around. The entire aim of the Small Football School is to give "real coaching for small people".

In each session, Dady builds on the skills that players have learned in previous weeks. During the duration of the course children develop skills that will help them thrive both on and off the pitch; including physical awareness, co-ordination, decision making, communication, and self-confidence. These essential skills help children who attend Small Football School develop and advance both physically and emotionally.

Dady has high hopes for the children that attend his courses, stating "my hope is that some small footballers will be approached by Football Club Academies". Understanding that this can be overwhelming and exciting for both player and parent, he offers coaching that "will prepare you for this eventuality, as its important to stay mindful and protect the interest of the child at all times".

The courses may be for youth players, but Dady still expects a level of commitment from his players. "When you're learning a new skill, practice now and then isn't going to cut it", he says. "That's why I ask small footballers to commit to at least one session a week".

Sessions run every Monday, Wednesday and Saturday, exclusively at the FDC Norwich, in Bowthorpe Park - the home of the F.A in Norfolk. The installation and facilities there are the best in the county. For seriously dedicated players, Dady offers a three-session a week premium package which includes three 1 hr sessions per week for one child and 20% off small football kit.

Small Football School is run by Dady Kabuiku. He is an FA qualified coach, ex semi-pro footballer, with experience as an under 7's grassroots team coach in France. He is also a level 4 personal trainer, fitness instructor, and nutritional advisor, Spanish Thai Boxing Semi-professional National champion (Black Belt), 3 x European Brazilian Jiu Jitsu Champion (2011-18), and FA trained in safeguarding & first aid.
