

Andrew Spurvey Joins QuickContractors.com as Head of its Home Depot Services Portfolio

Former Sales VP of publicly traded energy company will help power QuickContractors.com's North American business expansion

TORONTO, ON, CANADA, July 6, 2018

/EINPresswire.com/ -- QuickContractors.com Inc.

“QC” announced today that veteran retail services executive, Mr. Andrew Spurvey will soon be joining the company to head up its Home Depot services contracting business. QC and Spurvey have also launched a joint venture company, namely “SF&I Installations Inc.”, forming part of the QuickContractors.com Group of Companies, which shall be exclusively tasked with managing the sales, furnishing and installation of certain off-shelf Home Depot products and services.

In his new role, Spurvey will oversee all marketing, sales, customer service, advertising, merchandising, store engagement & training operations, and is poised towards helping QC continue its remarkable growth trajectory. Most recently, Spurvey is credited for creating Canada’s largest insulation contractors network, in less than two years.

“What I find most compelling about QC is two fold.” said Spurvey. “In addition to having a best-in-class 3000+ contractor base to build from, the company is very technologically advanced to the point of eliminating the majority of the administrative layers that still burden most contracting companies of this age. With several recent complimenting acquisitions, and one of the most experienced leadership teams in the industry, I’m looking forward to soon contribute and drive the company towards market dominance.”

“Andrew understands the complete picture and raises the bar when it comes to operating successful retail services programs. He also approaches customer satisfaction in a way that aligns with QC’s core values, and he has a proven track record of maximizing the growth of a range of high volume businesses.” said Trevor Bouchard, founder and CEO of QuickContractors.com. “He’s joining an already successful energetic team at the perfect time, to spearhead QC’s expansion with one of our most valued clients, The Home Depot.”
