

Harjes Downer Names Jeremy Ho as Head of Asia Pacific

The appointment to employ intra-organizational capabilities towards delivering on Harjes Downer's commitment to the region

SINGAPORE, SINGAPORE, July 6, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Harjes Downer, an independent investment management firm committed to enabling clients to become high-performance businesses, has appointed Jeremy Ho as Head of Asia Pacific. Mr. Ho, a Managing Director, will have management oversight responsibility for the firm's business in the region, including Harjes Downer's international offices. He will report to Vince Chia, Harjes Downer's Chief Executive Officer. Mr. Ho will continue to serve as a member of Harjes Downer's Executive Committee, the governing body that sets policy and strategic direction for the firm.

"Jeremy's appointment underscores Harjes Downer's commitment to the Asia Pacific region and our focus on delivering superior investment results and world class service. He will play a key leadership role in the next phase of these ongoing efforts," said Mr. Chia.

According to Mr. Ho, "Asia Pacific is a vitally important region for Harjes Downer. The investment landscape Harjes Downer has characterized as significant opportunities and risks for the region have been uncovered. We are committed to helping our clients navigate a challenging environment by delivering unique investment solutions."

Mr. Ho joined the company a decade ago, and has demonstrated leadership across several key areas of the firm. Previously, he was Head of Institutional Business and Head of Harjes Downer Advisory. Mr. Ho is also a member of Harjes Downer's Human Capital Committee and served on the board of directors of the Harjes Downer Foundation.

Prior to joining Harjes Downer, Mr. Ho worked as a financial analyst in the investment banking division at a well-respected firm and was also an associate at a private equity firm. He has 14 years of investment experience and holds an MBA degree in Finance.
