

Reuben's Brews Named in Top 10 Breweries in 2018 U.S. Open Beer Championship

Seattle brewery takes home six medals for both its year-round and specialty beers in one of the world's largest competitions

SEATTLE, WA, USA, July 10, 2018

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Reuben's Brews, a family-owned Seattle neighborhood brewery, was named in the Top 10 Breweries in the 2018 U.S. Open Beer Championship. The brewery won six medals in the competition, including awards for three of its year-round beers: Gose, Crikey IPA and Robust Porter. The brewery's Triple Crush, from its Crush Series, took home Gold in the Imperial Northeast IPA category.

"To be honored among the Top 10 breweries in one of the world's largest and most competitive competitions confirms the amazing work that our brewing team is doing," said Adam Robbins, co-founder and brewmaster of Reuben's Brews. "The mixture of winning beers, from IPAs to sours, from our year-round favorites to small batch brews, showcases the creativity of our brewery and the wide variety of excellent beers we are making."

Breweries from South Carolina to South Korea sent in more than 6,300 beers representing more than 110 different styles for the 2018 U.S. Open Beer Championship. The competition is the only one to include beers from professional breweries and award-winning home-brewers, with judges from England, Canada and the United States.

This is the third time that Reuben's Brews has been ranked in the Top Ten through this competition, taking home the honor in 2013 and 2014 as well.
