The tourism industry is very important to the island as it is the economic driver that creates jobs for individuals on the island and also helps national development which both visitors and residents benefit from.

We have noticed a huge increase in demand for The Cayman Islands over the last two years”

Emma O'Shea

The Cayman Islands is proving more popular every year as they already achieved a huge milestone in 2017 when they crossed 400,000 stayovers for the first time ever.

The Cayman Islands Tourism board are working effortlessly on their strategic tourism plan each year that contains innovative marketing practices and working in partnership to attract and find the right mix of visitors to their beloved islands.

The Cayman Islands will continue to be boosted this year by airlines such as Southwest Airlines and JetBlue who are adding even more flights to the islands this fall.

The Cayman Islands is a British Overseas Territory that is 102 square miles and consists of three islands Grand Cayman, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and is located south of Cuba.

Grand Cayman is the largest of the three islands with an area of 76 sq miles and is also the most developed island. Grand Cayman's two sister islands, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, are about 90 miles north-east of Grand Cayman and have areas of 14.7 and 11.0 sq miles.

Emma O'Shea who is the Cayman Islands specialist for Exceptional Villas said: “ We have noticed a huge increase in demand for The Cayman Islands over the last two years”. There is a lot more interest in the islands and we think this has a lot to do with how easy it is for clients to access it traveling from the UK and the United States. Our bookings have doubled over the last year and we expect this to continue. The Cayman Islands Tourism board are doing a great job and it is beginning to show.
