“

The dozens of stocks on the hourly stock watch lists our members have access to blow away the 10 - 15 stock tips that our competing services offer.”

The surprising and exciting launch celebration discounts on subscription memberships will be extended beyond the summer and won't end until October 1, 2018. The original discount time period was a change of pace from the usual 30 - 60 day discounts offered by its competitors, and now this extension gives opportunity for even more stock traders to experience the head start that Most Excellent Investor's content provides. It's reported that the first 7 days for free trial period provision continues also.

When asked about the stock trader research membership website's daily service, Jim Hartwell said: "Our new offering will be a success because finally there are stock trading analytics available at the beginning of the day that can provide guidance on an hourly basis throughout the the U.S. stock market trading day for beginners as well as seasoned traders. Our subscribers benefit from actionable stock watch lists early, late, or anytime during the trading day that fits with their trading strategy and trading frequency."

In a space where most competing services simply offer 10 - 15 stock tips per day, Most Excellent Investor opted for a more novel approach by providing technical analysis on dozens of stocks each hour, and the complete summer of discounts on memberships being extended into the fall will give new subscribers opportunity to capitalize on this short cut to find winning stocks.

Jim Hartwell, Founder at Most Excellent Investor, says: "We wanted to be surprising and innovative with our day trader stock research site, providing a daily short cut for the creation of winning watch lists of stocks to choose from. I hope this celebration extension opens the eyes of more new subscribers to the continuing opportunities that trading in the stock market has everyday, without taking a lot of unnecessary risk."

Most Excellent Investor's stock trader research membership website service is set to 'go live' Monday May 21, 2018. To find out more about the service and Most Excellent Investor itself, it's possible to visit <https://www.mostexcellentinvestor.com/>.
