

Indonesia accepts cryptocurrency, while new cryptocurrency exchange IBGX emerges.

JAKARTA, INDONESIA, August 27, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The Indonesian Trade Ministry's Futures Exchange Supervisory Board (Bappebti) has signed a decree on June 4th, 2018 to make cryptocurrency a commodity legally tradable on a stock exchange.

The Future Exchange Supervisory Board decided to allow crypto to trade as a commodity as a result of a fourmonth study into cryptocurrencies.

IBGX, a newly founded cryptocurrency exchange platform, have welcomed the news as a step forward into the future for Indonesia, as cryptocurrencies continue to attract global attention as the undeniable evolution of tech-savvy global societies. IBGX co-founder, Mr Yehoshua Westover noted that the influence of cryptocurrencies on the global economy cannot be overlooked and cannot be stopped and the best way is to accept and adapt to this evolution as soon as possible. By working out how we can best benefit from this latest tech wave is the only concern we should have, instead of how to stall its development.

IBGX is expected to launch its crypto exchange soon in the coming months and a lot of industry insiders revealed that it is one of the best exchange platforms to have surfaced in recent times. One such insider noted that the
