

Automatic Crash Detection App by Rocky Haire Injury Lawyers Allows Parents to Have Some Peace of Mind with Teen Drivers

Parents and teens get peace of mind when they use the Rocky Haire Injury Lawyers app with automatic crash detection and emergency contact notification

DENTON, TEXAS, USA, August 15, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Parents and teens get extra peace of mind when they use the Rocky Haire Injury Lawyers Denton and Dallas app with automatic crash detection and emergency contact notification. Available for free download on Google Play and the App Store, parents and their teen drivers can list three emergency contacts' names, email and phone numbers where they can receive a text message in the event of an accident. The app can sense when the user's phone experiences an abrupt change in travel, when the phone is in the car and it goes from driving speed to zero in an instant because of a wreck.

"Having kids of my own that drive is nerve racking enough, says, injury lawyer Rocky Haire, technology today allows some assurance you know what's happening when your teens are driving. It's really is a great tool for parents."

You can also manually set off the crash detection alert in the event of another emergency in which you need immediate first responders but cannot make an emergency phone call. For example, if you are injured, if you fear an intruder, or in any other situation where you cannot make a phone call, you can still summon help.
