

Sexology Expert Richard Gourley to be Featured on CUTV News Radio

SAVANNAH, GEORGIA, UNITED STATES, August 23, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The brain is the largest sex organ in the body; if it is not engaged, the other sex organs are not going to operate fully. We each possess a "core erotic theme" that defines and guides our sexual fantasies as well as our choice of sexual partners. To understand these aspects of ourselves, we might seek the assistance of a certified Sexologist, one who is trained and well-versed in the vast diversity of human sexuality, who can help us explore our personal path and assist in solving any sexual issues.

Richard Gourley has studied human sexuality at The Institute for the Advanced Study of Human Sexuality in San Francisco, CA. Richard is a certified Sexological Bodyworker and a certified and licensed Massage Therapist. Richard's focus in the sexological field is to assist men in exploring their sexuality, not through counseling, but through massage, erotic bodywork and touch.

Richard, born in 1947, has been a highly sexual individual since puberty. We all fall somewhere on the sexual spectrum and we may even move around that spectrum during our lifetime, but Richard knew from the very beginning that it was the male body that was his turn on. He married Carol at age 24; they have two grown children and now two grandchildren. Richard came out as a gay man around age 40 but did not separate and divorce until six or so years later when he met his longtime, now deceased, partner/husband Robin.

Massaging men and assisting them with their sexual issues through touch is never a conflict for Richard and his relationships as he believes human sex and human love are distinctly different parts of the human condition, though they intertwine at times. Love has many faces and names, one of which is Eros or erotic love.

Can you have too much sex? No, unless your sexual involvement interrupts and upsets other aspects of your life. One's sexual activity is good for the body, mind and soul as is physical exercise and healthy eating. But, like anything else, if it gets out of hand, sex can cause major issues.

Sexuality is also not fixed or rigid. Sex is fluid. One's focus and fantasies earlier in life may change over time but our “core erotic theme” will stay intact. Richard enjoys assisting men in realizing those fantasies, themes, desires through massage and erotic touch in a safe, confidential and consensual space.

CUTV News Radio will feature Richard Gourley in an interview with Jim Masters on August 27th at 11am EDT.
