

What is Juvéderm and How Can It Help You Smooth Out Your Wrinkles? Dr Muhammad Mirza Has the Answers

MANHATTAN, NEW YORK, UNITED STATES, August 24, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- When a person thinks of having cosmetic surgery to treat wrinkles and unwanted facial lines, they generally think of Botox first. However, treatments such as Juvéderm offer relief similar to Botox but target different wrinkle types. It's advocated highly by doctors such as Dr. Muhammad Mirza.

Aging is, understandably, something that many people wish to reverse or stop altogether. The most well-known treatment for preventing the appearance of aging in this regard is usually Botox, but it's not the only one. Juvéderm is another such treatment that has proved effective in treating wrinkles with long-lasting effects.

Varied wrinkle types

While both Juvéderm and Botox are great for plumping up and defining lips and other facial features, they're not equal when it comes to filling in wrinkles. Different wrinkle types require different treatments and there are generally two distinct wrinkle types:

Wrinkles that are present when a face is at rest

Wrinkles that appear during muscle movement or contraction

Juvéderm is the ideal treatment for wrinkles and lines that are present when your face is at rest, whereas Botox is generally used for wrinkles that appear when muscles move and contract. Juvéderm is also better when it comes to filling in hollows and giving the appearance of volume, which is why it's better suited to static wrinkles. So for those deep lines that appear on your forehead or around your eyes when you're not smiling, nasolabial folds and frown lines, Juvéderm is the answer.

How is Juvederm applied?

Like Botox, Juvéderm is applied using an injection. Skills practitioners such as Dr. Muhammad Mirza carefully measure out the dose and apply them to affected areas. Treatments generally take between 15 minutes and an hour, and the downtime is extremely minimal, meaning you can visit the clinic and return to your normal daily activity soon after leaving.

The results are generally immediate and, although it varies from person to person, will last for about a year once applied. For maintaining the optimal smooth look it may be necessary to get minor touch-ups, but this should be discussed with your doctor or skin care expert first.

Choosing the right professional

If you've decided that Juvéderm is the best treatment for you, the next step is to find a doctor whose reputation and expertise you trust. Dr. Muhammad Mirza is not only a skilled practitioner with a host of satisfied clients to prove it, but his extremely affordable prices make him one of the most competitive on the market.
