

New Cloud-based “Field to Payment” A Game Changer For Oilfield Companies

Cleargistix and ProcureDox team up to develop “Field to Payment” a new cloud-based game changer for oilfield companies

MADISONVILLE, LA, U.S., August 27, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- CALGARY, ALBERTA and MADISONVILLE, LOUISIANA– A new, more efficient electronic data gathering and invoicing system has hit the market. And it allows companies with remote workers who record data in the field to seamlessly move that information from the field through accounting to payment.

“Field to Payment” (F2P) is an end-to-end, cloud-based solution that eliminates costly delays often experienced by oilfield services companies. Field workers electronically record their data, which is automatically connected to their accounting system, effectively streamlining the process. The information is then converted into electronic invoices and sent to customers for payment. The billing transaction is entirely digital, from its initial entry in the field to creating electronic invoices in third-party vendor management sites such as Oildex, Cortex and Ariba. This alleviates the need for time consuming re-keying and scanning.

The F2P solution is a result of the partnership between ProcureDox Business Solutions Inc., a developer of electronic invoicing and data exchange solutions, and Cleargistix LLC, a developer of digital solutions that replace paper or spreadsheet-based capture and management of information in the field.

“I’m very happy to offer our customers a true, end-to-end, digital solution for revenue cycle management,” said Steven Touns, President and CEO of Cleargistix. “Through F2P, we have found a way to alleviate major issues plaguing oilfield services companies – finding efficiencies in moving critical information through ticketing and accounting, and allowing for a better payment process.”

“The business benefits that F2P provide vary, depending on your company,” said Ibrahim Hamouda, President and CEO of ProcureDox. “But the one constant is that it will bring your game to the next level by increasing productivity and reducing costs.”
