One part of the rap group, Music On My Mind, James has recently decided to pursue solo projects to branch out and expose his unique style to a whole new fan base. James describes his sound as trap conscious.

"Trap conscious is like taking that trap sound or beat and putting a conscious flow over it. You get the best of both worlds. You get that sound; you get that feeling, but then you get that sound that can grow you."

With the release of "Rudely Yourz," James wants to use the project as a launch pad for a full-scale album, which, per James, "would mean I would have built myself up and my brand where I have a platform big enough to do so."
