KDG offers award-winning custom software development

Custom CRM development is among the company's most popular development projects. A CRM tool helps businesses organize customer data, streamline sales processes, and contact leads. The mobile-responsive software is built entirely by KDG's 100% US-based team of developers. Businesses own the code after it is completed.

“

Before we even begin development, we work with clients on a project discovery process”
John Lamont, Director of Development

“Before we even begin development, we work with clients on a project discovery process,” says John Lamont, director of development. “This allows us to plan the project, gather its requirements, and blueprint its solutions.”

KDG's development team is also comprised of certified Zoho Creator developers, as well as Google Partners.
