

AIRBALTIC SIGNS AOG AND SERVICE CARGO AGREEMENT WITH B&H WORLDWIDE

B&H Worldwide has signed an agreement to handle AOG and routine traffic as service cargo to and from London Gatwick on behalf of airBaltic.

LONDON, HEATHROW, UNITED KINGDOM, September 3, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- B&H Worldwide, the-best-in-class, aerospace logistics company, and winner of the 2018 BIFA Freight Service award for Supply Chain Management, has signed an agreement to handle AOG and routine traffic as service cargo to and from London Gatwick on behalf of airBaltic.

airBaltic operates a fleet of 34 aircraft offering direct flights from the Latvian capital, Riga, to more than 70 destinations with additional direct flights from Tallinn and Vilnius to various European destinations. airBaltic has been recognised as the most punctual airline in the world for several years in a row.

"We are confident we can play our part in maintaining airBaltic's high standards by supplying both AOG and routine cargo supplies on time, every time."

Stuart Allen (Group CEO)

Under the new contract, which is effective immediately, B&H will exclusively manage all AOG traffic, time-critical spares and routine shipments.

B&H will take care of the entire shipping process providing a new level of shipment transparency to airBaltic through the use of its unique OnTrack system to provide track & trace and reporting with an option to include full inventory management in the future. The contract will be managed through the B&H London Heathrow Control Tower providing round-the-clock 24/7, 365 service to the customer globally.

Says B&H Worldwide CEO, Stuart Allen: "We are delighted to have added another blue-chip carrier to our client portfolio. airBaltic has a high-level reputation to protect having been voted the world's most punctual airline and we are confident we can play our part in it continuing to maintain those high standards by supplying both AOG and routine cargo supplies on time, every time".
