The latest trend in IAM is to serve as a foundational security component in environments that connect to mobile platforms. Many organization have gone mobile with bring-your-own-device (BYOD) policies, enabling employees to access corporate data remotely. The greatest challenge in BYOD is associated with mobile devices, cell phones and tablets which are at a greater risk of falling into the wrong hands and losing confidential information.

Identity and access management is linked to the security and productivity of organization that enables organizations to drive a secure method of access to critical information and advanced authentication services will not only leverage the basic credentials but additional contextual information to validate user authentication.

Identity and access management provides automated and repeatable form to conduct the identity access management. This is necessary when it comes to compliance with identity and privacy laws. Several Governments need organization to take care access and control identity management where these organizations are hold accountable for controlling access to customer and employee information. Identity management systems facilitate the organizations to comply with those regulations.

In today's digital world, digital identity is at the frontlines of security and increase in adoption of authentication and authorization management technologies such as single sign-on, multi-factor authentication and password-less authentication has become prominent. Another growth area in IAM is in biometrics. As devices become lighter, easier to use and less expensive it becomes a more attractive option for companies. By using the power of biometric technology the SmartMetric, Inc. is a technology engineering, research and development company that has designed biometric credit/debit card, where a card user's fingerprint is used to unlock the card in less than a second which is Safer than a password and so much easier and quicker than entering a PIN.

Significant challenge in implementing IAM solutions is that it is very costly, time consuming and tedious as there are more and more applications which required to be integrated with IAM. A new identity management solution release by International Business Machines Corporation (IBM) is a multinational technology and consulting organization that simplifies employee access to business applications across a hybrid cloud. Cloud Identity Connect is a new Identity-as-a-Service (IDaaS) that will be conveyed via the IBM Cloud Identity Connect offers one-click access to infrastructure investments on-premises and in the cloud.

A good IAM program will monitor user behavior for any mischievous activity and realigns access privileges thus making organizations more empowered with productive workforce and very high data security.
