The major drawback of cloud integration services is data security, storing data in the cloud means the data, application of an organization are at high risk of revealing some secret information of the company to third parties but this risk can be mitigated by managing firewall, intrusion detection, and virus protection. Secondly, the integration solutions cannot tackle complicated scenario as the integration software are not flexible or sophisticated enough to do so. Thirdly, the cloud based application have less visibility and control over their own application.

The current trends like Bring Your Own Device (BYOD) along with high data traffic is creating huge volumes of data that needs storage space. Streamlining of business processes, Digital transformation, and storage space are all driving the future growth of iPaas market.

"Robin Systems" the leading container-based cloud platform for big data and databases, has announced that it has partnered with "Microsoft Azure". MS Azure is a cloud computing service which builds, tests deploys, manages applications and services through a global network of Microsoft-managed data centers. With a joint solution that leverages container technology to enable 1-click cloud migration for applications including database and Big Data applications, reduces costs and eliminates the need to add IT resources. Data and its state to get an identical live running application on Microsoft Azure.
