Jatheon Technologies, a company specializing in email archiving, announces the launch of 2 new models of cCore, an award-winning on-premise archiving solution.

TORONTO, ONTARIO, CANADA, September 3, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Jatheon Technologies, a tech company specializing in email, social media and mobile text and call archiving for regulated industries announces the launch of two new models of cCore, their award-winning on-premise archiving solution. With the new models, Jatheon can address both the lower and higher ends of the email archiving market.

The new cCore6 model retains the superior hardware and software features of the existing models, but offers optimal storage space for companies with up to five hundred users. cCore 96x, on the other hand, is a robust solution able to meet the extensive requirements of large enterprises with ten thousand users and more. These models round off Jatheon's offer of on-premise archiving solutions, with the cCore family now amounting to six appliances.

The new models were designed with Jatheon's customer-centered philosophy in mind – providing all-in-one, cost-effective and easy-to-deploy archiving appliances coupled with a unique customer service, maintenance and support plan, aptly named Jatheon Care.

“Customer feedback was vital in the development of the new models, as it is with all our product development initiatives”, said Marko Dinic, CEO at Jatheon. “We are happy to expand Jatheon's growth in product breadth and market share. The two new cCore models are a reflection of our continual efforts to bring our clients the best enterprise-grade components that ensure virtually no downtime. Last year, we updated our entire cCore portfolio hardware to satisfy the ever-growing requirements of businesses while making sure data security remains our top priority.”
