

PDL ANNOUNCES NEW ASSET TRACKING & VEHICLE TRACKING SERVICES

Major improvements in GPS tracking hardware, software and services

LONDON, U.K, September 5, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Private Investigation company PDL has launched its new improved asset and vehicle tracking service this month.

Following the long, diligent process of acquiring and testing GPS tracking devices and software from many places worldwide including Russia and China, PDL has sourced a GPS tracker and accompanying software of unparalleled quality.

This relationship has seen PDL dealing directly with the device manufacturer and developing their own in-house unrivalled software, meaning two things - firstly greater quality and operational control, and secondly more cost-effective solutions for clients.

The tracking devices themselves are robust, magnetic and covertly fitted to the vehicle's exterior. Instances of issues such as trackers being damaged or falling from vehicles are now significantly reduced and very rare.

The accompanying software is fast and reliable. It provides an alert the instant the device is on the move, and can accurately pinpoint its location at any time. In the rare event of any technical issues, the software being developed in-house means that these issues can be rectified immediately.

Peter Torley, owner and lead investigation consultant at PDL said "The quality, durability and reliability of these devices and software far surpasses anything we've encountered previously, in our 25 years in this business. Using these tools, our expert investigation personnel offer asset and vehicle tracking services of the highest order."
