

Robert Poole, Reason Foundation Director of Transportation, Keynotes Sept. 21 Event: "Rethinking America's Highways"

Policy Briefing Luncheon features Poole's new book, "Rethinking America's Highways: A 21st-Century Vision for Better Infrastructure."

ATLANTA, GEORGIA, UNITED STATES, September 11, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Metro Atlanta's long-awaited Northwest Corridor reversible Express Toll Lanes just opened. In a few short weeks, MARTA will announce how it plans to spend an estimated $2.5 billion in sales tax funds over the next 40 years. Gwinnett County just scheduled its voter referendum on a transit tax; more announcements are expected to follow in metro Atlanta.

Where should Georgia go on transportation?

You're invited to a Policy Briefing Luncheon with Robert Poole, co-founder of the Reason Foundation and its Director of Transportation Policy, at 11:30 a.m on Friday, September 21, at Cobb County's Georgian Club.

Hosted by the Georgia Public Policy Foundation, this event is a book forum featuring Poole's new book, "Rethinking America's Highways: A 21st-Century Vision for Better Infrastructure." A limited number of his books are available for pre-order at the discounted price of $20.
