LONDON, LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, September 17, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In September 2018, Lilo launched a redesigned WordPress website for Leonari, a London-based mechanical and electrical (M&E) contractor that covers work in many different sectors.

About the Client

Leonari is a company that prides itself in its ability to efficiently complete all of their projects - on time, budget and to the highest standards. They apply a "making it happen" approach, focusing on using positive solutions and ideas and solutions to each of their unique jobs.

Leonari was founded in January 2014, and has shown organic growth year-on-year. This exceptional progress has been attributed to their professional and hands-on approach, leading to many successful projects (and repeat business from their clients).

They have performed work for clients in a wide-ranging spectrum of sectors - including commercial, education, hotel, retail, residential, data-centre and healthcare.

A well-designed website will promote your services 24/7,” said Berland. “Can your salesperson do that?”

Through a combination of innovation, ability, experience and ambition - they always strive to deliver their mechanical and engineering projects that meet all their client’s needs, and beyond.

About the Project

There were two key points to address with the site redesign - adding more visual impact to showcase their work and dedication, and also creating a platform where they could shape that impact themselves.

Since its inception, Leonari has been a hands-on M&E contractor with a keen eye for detail. It’s this attention to detail that the company wanted to apply to not only the overall design of their website, but also to its future content.

Lilo worked closely with Leonari owner Stathis Londos to add customisable features that could be used to easily create visually appealing elements to highlight their services and projects - including the implementation of branded sliders and media grids for their project portfolios.

The website's mobile / responsive views were also carefully scrutinised, ensuring that the right images were selected and edited for maximum effect.
