As a leading supplier of building supplies and materials for over 125 years in the Quad Cities area, Seiffert has continued to gain share in the window and door market for both new and replacement projects. With their continued growth in key areas, including residential, architectural and historical restoration, an increased focus and investment in the business became a logical business venture.

“Customers tell us that they're shocked at how competitively priced our windows and doors are,” said Bill Burress, President, Seiffert Lumber Company. “That's coming from people replacing just a few windows in their older home all the way to some who have had very discerning and unique needs for their new dream home.”

An exclusive distributor of the Marvin and Integrity brands of clad wood and fiberglass window and door products, Seiffert Window Center also offers several lines of window and door products from ViWinTech, Therma-Tru and other leading manufacturers. Today, Seiffert offers a full portfolio of windows, scenic doors and entryway door products including clad wood, fiberglass, vinyl and steel product line varieties. By offering such a wide variety of product price and quality levels, Seiffert provides solutions for projects ranging from entry level to full customization.
