

Miami Empresarial Magazine Nominated For Latin Builders Association's 38th Annual Awards

"We are absolutely thrilled with this nomination," commented Arquímedes Trujillo, publisher of Miami Empresarial. "Our ties to the LBA go back several decades."

MIAMI, FL - FLORIDA, USA, September 19, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Nearly one thousand South Florida professionals from the area's construction, real estate, financial and related industries will be on hand for the ceremony, to be held on Friday, September 28th, 2018, at the Hilton Downtown Miami, to recognize the accomplishments of local individuals and companies.

Miami, Florida, September 18, 2018 | Latin Builders Association® (LBA), the largest Hispanic construction association in the United States, has nominated Miami Empresarial Magazine as a finalist for its upcoming 38th Annual Awards ceremony. The publication was selected to compete in the Public Relations/Marketing Firm of The Year/Event Planning category.

"We are absolutely thrilled with this nomination," commented Arquímedes Trujillo, publisher of Miami Empresarial. "Our ties to the LBA go back several decades, as our parent company, Conceptual Advertising, has been a longtime member and published the organization's Proyecto magazine between 2002 and 2009."

Since its inception in 2010, Miami Empresarial Magazine, which focuses on South Florida's business sector as well as the national and international trends that affect the area's commercial and industrial environment, has worked closely with the Latin Builders Association® and the area's vibrant construction and real estate companies to highlight success stories in a climate of economic resurgence, adaptability and revitalization.

Through its editorials, articles and event coverage, Miami Empresarial has disseminated positive, actionable information about commercial activity to/from/within Miami-Dade County. The magazine's slogan is "Because Miami Is Open for Business," emphasizing that business—and especially the construction and real estate industries—is certainly alive and thriving in Miami.

"Many nominees were considered for this honor," wrote Natalia Pierantoni, Latin Builders Association's events manager, in the announcement letter. Miami Empresarial's "leadership and determination has distinguished itself as being worthy of this nomination by your colleagues and peers in the LBA."

The Latin Builders Association® continues to play a vital role in South Florida. Throughout its 47-year history, it has brought together the region's independent, Hispanic-owned builders, developers, brokers, contractors, and subcontractors to create a dynamic, proactive organization that supports and promotes one of South Florida's most important industries—second only to tourism and international trade.

LBA's 38th Annual Awards celebration will be held on Friday, September 28th, 2018 at the Hilton Downtown Miami. For more information on this event, please visit <http://lbaorg.com/events/lba-38th-awards-luncheon-september/>

ABOUT MIAMI EMPRESARIAL MAGAZINE:

Since its official launch in 2010, at the tail end of the economic downturn, Miami Empresarial has sought to spotlight South Florida's business community and the distinctive, talented, energetic, creative, resourceful, resilient, and industrious individuals that keep it moving full speed ahead. In its printed and digital editions, the magazine's content is tailored to entrepreneurs, professionals and officials to foreign nationals planning to travel/expand to Miami or already living/operating in South Florida.

Through its articles, profiles, features and event coverage pages, our publication strives to bring to the forefront the stories behind the industries, the companies and the people that contribute to the region's strength and progress.

Miami Empresarial partners with top institutions, such as the University of Miami School of Business, the Greater Miami Chamber of Commerce, Frost & Sullivan, The Chicago Booth School of Business, Miami Finance Forum, EXTENDA/Trade Promotion Agency of Andalusia (Spain), and other local, national and international professional organizations and chambers of commerce for up-to-the-minute developments and special events coverage.

ABOUT LATIN BUILDERS ASSOCIATION:

Established in 1971, the Latin Builders Association® is by far the largest Hispanic construction association in the United States. A nonprofit organization, it includes a vast array of individuals and companies related to the South Florida construction industry. The LBA has over 750 member companies representing every aspect of South Florida's vibrant construction industry. With much success, the LBA has expanded opportunities to other industries, not just in the field of construction. The LBA embodies the interests of builders, developers, contractors, architects, engineers, lawyers, real estate agents, and many more professionals throughout the community.
